Right Foundation Essential For Pant-Perfect Figure

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK — (NEA) — It's one thing to slink and quite another to look it. Particularly in any of the pretty, slinky, zingy city pants that simply can't be ignored as basic to any contemporary wardrobe.

Since being in the "thick" of fashion means exactly the opposite—no spillage, no bulge—select girdles specifically designed to meet the new demands of couture pants.

A back interest panty girdle is the canny answer to the law of gravity. For with pants, back mobility is important. You can't simply rely on front paneling help. Select a girdle that won't creep up or ride down, one that will move with you when you bend, walk, run, jog, somersault or whatever.

The secret of this second-skin mobility is a porous power net strategically placed at the small of the back and designed to imitate your every move.

Jumpsuit Underdogs
The jumpsuit is big for the summer season and an all-in-one foundation is its best teammate. A lightweight Lycra version that starts its shaping from below the bosom right to the thigh for a fluid silhouette is best. Jumpsuit sare torso huggers and even the tiniest extra inch shows up as a giant bulge. Make certain your foundation has stretch straps so there's no argument between top and bottom.

Another potential danger spot for the pretty pant brigade is the thighs. The new thigh-hugger garment is a born naturalizer and will slim you down to size with power net side sections that go down all the way.

One of the important things, if you want to play it straight and narrow even in flared bell-bottoms, is to choose a panty girdle with recessed garters. Otherwise you'll be adding extra girth and an unsightly, unnecessary line.

Avoid Middle Pushups

Many of the pant tops, although they are soft and flowy, are belted. Therefore, wear a model with a felt-lined or angled waistband to help keep things in place. Avoid "push-ups" over the middle.

Diet notwithstanding, the proper underpinnings tip the scales in your favor by keeping you properly scaled down for the pant-perfect figure.

Latins Question Policies Of U. S. With Alliance

By PHI NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If Latin American governments were to sum up in a single sentence their feelings toward the United States, they could do it by recalling the proverb which says the road to hell is paved with good intentions.

What Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has been hearing on his learn-and-listen tour and what a critical document to be presented to President Nixon this week in the names of all Latin American foreign ministers, except Cuba, will say is being said more in sorrow than in anger.

Student and leftist violence which has marked the Rockefeller tour is something else.

Roots in Past

Its roots in the past and it plays upon the sense of frustration and helplessness common across the border both to the north and south in the face of the U.S. colossus.

With the exception of Peru's military government, no one in Latin America has questioned U.S. good intent.

Nor are questioned the goals of the Alliance for Progress to which the United States has contributed a billion dollars a year in loans and grants since its beginning in 1961.

What has been questioned is the policies which have directed it.

There is, further, disappointment that not since its beginning has the continent as a whole been able to reach its development goal of 2.5 per cent per year against a population growth rate of around three per cent.

It was with a feeling both in Washington and Latin American capitals that the alliance somehow had stagnated that Nixon requested the Spanish-speaking New York governor to make his four-part tour and Latin American foreign ministers met at Vina del Mar, Chile, to draw up their own list of recommendations.

The document makes a special note of Latin fears that a protectionist U.S. Congress not only will trim foreign aid but will impose new restrictions on imports from Latin America.

It asks for commitments against new restrictions and special treatment for such Latin American exports as cotton, textiles and beef.

The foreign ministers ask elimination of special conditions which require that U.S. loans be used to buy U.S. goods which can be purchased more cheaply elsewhere and that U.S. ships be used to transport the goods.

Foreign investment, they say, ideally, should be with participation of the nation involved and used to generate national income.

The foreign investment issue is especially touchy in view of Peru's seizure of American-owned oil properties, and rising demands in other Latin nations for a greater government share in income from oil, copper and the continent's other mineral wealth.

38 Attend Dinner For Pvt. Guthrie

Pvt. James Robert Guthrie was honored Sunday at a dinner in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Rosa Dugger.

Hosting the party with Mrs. Dugger were the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Guthrie; and his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Wright, and their children, Kathy and Debbie.

Private Guthrie, an M.P. with the United States Army, is on a delayed route to Frankfurt, Germany. He will leave Thursday for Fort Dix, N.J. from where he will go immediately overseas.

Among the 38 persons attending the dinner Sunday were Private Guthrie's wife and daughter, Regina Gale of Wilmer; his grandmother, Mrs. Bob Guthrie, two aunts and their families from Palestine; Mr. and Mrs. Arlon Files and daughters, Keitha and LaFond of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones and son, Woody Joe, from Ferris.

'69 Graduate Feted With Buffet Supper In Huskins' Home

Among parties given to honor 1969 graduates of Waxahachie High School was a buffet supper feting Miss Sandy Johnston.

Mrs. Mike Huskins and Phyllis Huskins were hostesses for the supper in the Huskins home at 117 Barger Drive.

A "wise owl" motif was accented in decorations for the party where the table from which guests were served was covered by a green cloth and entered by daisies and a replica of the "bird." Owl hors d'oeuvres were a special note. Miss Johnston was presented a gift by her hostesses.

Among the 20 guests was the honoree's mother, Mrs. Johnny Johnston.

Opti-Mrs. Discuss Plans For Carnival

Members of the Opti-Mrs. Club met Monday night in the home of Mrs. Charles Forbes, 200 Wilmington, with Mrs. Weldon Booher as co-hostess.

Preliminary plans for the annual carnival were discussed and the committee to conduct the June sing-song at Renfro Nursing Home was announced.

Those directing the sing-song Thursday night will be Mrs. James Blakemore, Mrs. Afton Brewer, Mrs. Buddy Vincent and Mrs. Charlie Taylor.

It was also announced that Wednesday will be Ladies' Day at the Optimist Club meeting.

Mrs. Harrison Initiates Grizzard-Cole Foundation

The Grizzard-Cole scholarship foundation was established in the name of two deceased founders by members of Delta Kappa Gamma at the society's recent state convention in Austin, Mrs. Thomas F. Harrison, delegate, reported today.

Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Cooper Curry represented the Ellis County Alpha Alpha chapter at Austin where some 1,000 members were registered for the state meeting of women educators.

Initiated by Mrs. Harrison, president of Alpha Alpha, the foundation is named in memory of Miss Mabel Grizzard of Waxahachie and Miss Ruby Cole. It is to be established for $5,000 and a like sum is to be added when funds are available. When completed, interest from the $10,000 foundation will provide scholarships of from $400 to $525 per year, Mrs. Harrison explained.

Founders' Dinner

Highlights of the meeting, headquartered at the Terrace Motor Hotel, included the Founders' Dinner where music was provided by the Austin Chorus and the State Chorus of which Mrs. Harrison was one of 18 members.

A feature at this formal dinner was the exchange of money corsages members had been wearing for corsages made of red chiffon roses which were a part of the table decorations. The money-corsages were collected on silver trays and, with other gifts, became a part of the scholarship fund.

A reception for new state officers who had been installed earlier at a red rose ceremony followed the Founders' dinner.

Among other events were the Presidents' Dinner when Mrs. Harrison was presented along with 213 other chapter presidents in a "Miss America" type pageant featuring flaming torches and candlelight; and the opening "get acquainted" session which was a boat trip down the Colorado River for an outdoor fish dinner at Green Shores restaurant.

Birthday Luncheon

Also outstanding was the Birthday Luncheon where more than $8,000 was presented in scholarships ranging from $100 to $2,500; and where the 40th birthday of Delta Kappa Gamma was celebrated.

At this event the head table was arranged to give the illusion of a huge, two-tiered birthday cake. Each place setting included a piece of "birthday cake" containing a small, red candle which, at a given signal, was lighted from a burning torch centering the table.

Roses, The Bible, flaming torches and candles were used throughout in the decor for the convention festivities.
